CROWD CONTROL BETTER . . .

Stories Conflict In Negro Death

Los Angeles (AP)—Shouting crowds were banished from the corridors Friday as a coroner's jury heard conflicting testimony in the shooting of a young Negro by a white policeman.

Demonstrations, protest statements, and claims of "police brutality" have followed the May 7 shooting of Leonard Deadwyler, 25, by officer Jerold M. Bova, 23.

All told, five witnesses testified in a hearing-room atmosphere so orderly that several spectators dozed. The hearing was adjourned quietly until Monday.

Thursday an overflow crowd of 600 turned out for the inquest's start and was so unruly it was quickly adjourned. Friday morning's session drew a smaller, more orderly group—but after the 183 seats were filled a crowd of about 40 tried to push its way in. Cries of "Getapo" and "Stop us with bullets" were heard as helmeted police barred them with nightsticks, then cleared them from the area.

Different Story

A version of the shooting that conflicted with those told at the time came Friday morning from Deborah Barnett, 11, a Negro, who said she witnessed the affair while walking on a sidewalk.

She said the fatal shot was fired from a police car as it moved slowly alongside the Deadwyler car.

Bova said at the time his was one of several cars chasing the speeding Deadwyler car, and that after he stopped it his drawn gun fired accidentally when, as he reached inside for the keys, the vehicle lurched ahead.

False Alarm
Deadwyler's widow, Barbara, 25, said at the time her husband was rushing her to the hospital because they thought her expected baby was coming—it turned out to be a false alarm—and the gun fired as Bova leaned into the car.

Another witness, Officer Thomas Freeman, said he chased Deadwyler 50 blocks at speeds up to 85 miles per hour, and that the car finally was stopped by one of three other police cars that joined the chase.

As the inquest resumed, a police investigator said a white witness to the shooting refused to testify because he fears for his family's safety.

3 S's Help Get Zoo Ready

Maintenance men at Children's Zoo in Lincoln have good news for school children who are fed up to about here with the three R's.

For the past five or six weeks, groundskeepers, zoo keepers and repair men have been busy with the three S's—soaking, sodding and seeding—in an effort to get the zoo ready to open May 28.

New sidewalks, more trees and at least two new animal pens have been readied in the past few weeks.

Also, a structural bridge, used last year by park trucks, has been torn out and replaced by a foot bridge. The change made possible straightening and re-rocking the stream bed that meanders through the zoo.

Slide For Otters

The otter cage, new this year is being completed and equipped with a slide off which the slippery little animals can zoom into a pool of deep water.

The gibbon cage, not complete last year, has been finished and will house several of the acrobatic little apes this season.

Night visitors to the zoo will be treated to plumes of water colored by electric lights in the column-ringed pool which overlooks the grounds.

Five New Ones

Five new peacocks arrived at the zoo recently, bringing to seven the number of shaggy-tails on display this season.

Next on the agenda—besides more soaking, seeding and sodding—will be transferring animals from inside pens to private arenas on the zoo grounds, according to zoo keeper Roy Poskocich.

U.S. To Cancel Base Lease, Get Portion Back For Corps

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The federal government has agreed to an outright cancellation of the Lincoln Air Force Base lease with the understanding that the 500-acre Job Corps area will be leased back to the government by the city for a period of 25 years.

Sam J. Parker, regional director of the General Services Administration (GSA) in Kansas City, Mo., forwarded the government's acceptance of the lease arrangements and Lincoln's basic position Friday to attorney Chauncey Barney and Mayor Dean Petersen.

The GSA controls government-owned or operated property. Barney and the mayor have headed city efforts in regaining control of air base property which is owned by the city.

Negotiation Ended
Acceptance of the city's position ends months of negotiations on the lease, complicated by federal approval of locating a Job Corps center at the base.

During the talks, the city has insisted that: (1) the center will be confined to the 500-acre campus; (2) Northern Natural Gas Co. will be the prime contractor and (3) the entire lease must be terminated and the Job Corps portion renegotiated.

Although the new lease arrangement has not been officially drafted, the city has agreed that, like the old 99-year lease for the entire property, the new lease will provide the government with unlimited use of the 500 acres for the term, or until termination.

The Job Corps area lease will be for a straight 25 years, with no options, for $1. "Unlimited use" will be interpreted to mean any government use.

Along with cancellation of the present lease and the proviso for unlimited use should the Job Corps center become defunct, the GSA and the city have reached an understanding that:

—The new lease of the restricted area will recognize the government's ownership of improvements now installed and to be installed during the new term and the right of the government to remove or sell such improvements during the term.

To Be Released
—The government will be released from any liability for restoration under the present lease. The city and the Lincoln Airport Authority shall correspondingly be released from accountability for structures or improvements modified, salvaged or removed by the government during the present Air Force tenancy.

—The new lease will not impose any duties of maintenance or upkeep of the Job Corps area on the city of Airport Authority, but would include proper assurances of various utility and city services to be charged on a non-discriminating basis.

The GSA letter of concurrence also follows two months of intensified negotiations highlighted by city fears that lease questions would not be answered by the June 25 air base deactivation date or by the time the Job Corps center is scheduled to open this summer.

The government is reported to have wanted a 99-year lease on the Job Corps area. The city stood by its maximum of 25 years, although the City Council, Airport Authority and Lincoln Opportunity Team advisory committee had earlier favored a five year lease, with options, "for Job Corps use only."

Mayor Petersen said Friday that he is "happy that we've finally got this thing put together on the basis we started originally."

Opportunity For City
Regarding the balance of the property, the mayor said, "We have the opportunity to establish one of the finest air industrial parks in the nation, now that we are in a position to determine what we have to offer and on what basis . . . we will diligently pursue attracting something substantial."

"The Job Corps will help to defray the expenses that are inherent out there until such time as other activities help. The Job Corps, said the mayor, "will be a rewarding challenge for Lincoln. Although there will be some problems, their solutions and the helping of young people will benefit the city for many years to come."

He commented that "this (Job Corps) is the immediate benefit. The long-range goal is the establishment of a technical training center under the guidance and help of two of our finest institutions—the University of Nebraska and Northern Natural Gas Co."

8 U.S. Marines Hurt By Loyalist-Rebel Fire

. . . POLICE DISPERSE BUDDHIST CROWD

Salgon (AP)—Vietnamese war planes bombed rebel positions at Da Nang Saturday for the first time, and in Saigon thousands of Buddhist monks and nuns staged a sitdown hunger strike against the military government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

At Da Nang a reliable report said Saturday that Vietnamese marines entered the pagoda complex in the western end of the city where Buddhist dissidents have been defying government forces.

The report said heavy firing broke out as the marines moved in.

The bodies of several yellow-clad monks were reportedly seen near the pagoda.

Scattered gunfire throughout the city prevented news-men from reaching the scene.

Eight U.S. Marines were reported wounded Saturday during mortar shelling and rocket firing between Vietnamese government and rebel forces at Da Nang Air Base.

Attack Positions
Insurgent troops first sent a series of mortar shells on the big air base, jointly used by American and Vietnamese planes. Vietnamese government planes attacked the rebel mortar positions with rockets and bombs.

Reliable sources said one of the rockets either missed its target or fragments from the explosion hit headquarters of the U.S. 3rd Marine Amphibious Force near the air base and that there were casualties.

These sources said U.S. Marine Phantom jets were ordered into the air against the Vietnamese planes but were recalled and there were no encounters. This report was not confirmed immediately by the U.S. command.

The rise in the tempo of the political and military struggle—Vietnamese against Vietnamese—threatened to further stall the war against the communist Viet Cong.

From Hue, a Buddhist center 50 miles beyond Da Nang, the nation's leading monk, Thich Tri Quang, telephoned this ultimatum to the Buddhist Institute here for relay to Ky: resign or more blood will flow.

Prayer Urged
Thich Thien Minh, one of the powerful institute leaders, urged the Buddhists to "pray for the people of central Viet Nam" where, he charged, hundreds of persons have been killed or wounded in the civil strife.

At daybreak in Da Nang, four Skyraiders from Ky's air force made a low pass at rebel troops on the east side of the Da Nang River and dropped four or five 250-pound bombs.

They also strafed rebel soldiers. No bombs were dropped into the city itself, and it did not appear the government troops were moving on the pagoda strongholds held by antigovernment forces.

Heavy firing broke out as the planes attacked.

First Time

It was the first time air power had been brought into the battle of Da Nang, although there were reports that Vietnamese air force planes Friday strafed a column of defecting troops outside the northern city.

There was also sporadic fighting in Da Nang Friday.

In Saigon, U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge returned from Washington conferences to on-the-spot duty in U.S. efforts to help work out a solution. The Buddhists are demanding an end to military rule.

"It feels fine to be back in this beautiful country to which I am so attached," Lodge said, smiling. "I like it here."

Convoys Defect
Among developments rounding out the picture

Advices from the agitation-ridden northern provinces making up the 1st Corps are a spoke of two convoys of government troops deserting to join the rebels, presumably at Da Nang. One convoy of defectors, from Hoi An, was reported strafed by Ky's planes.

American officials expressed hope that economic pressure on the northern dissidents would help to achieve a settlement.

Monsoon rains and wind limited air strikes against North Viet Nam for the sixth straight day. U.S. air cavalrymen fought on against a communist force in the central highlands near An Khe. They killed six Viet Cong in one skirmish.

Varied Schedule Set For Lady Bird

. . . Visits Lincoln, Omaha June 15

Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, who has become known for her national beautification campaign, will leave a spade of the same soil that early Nebraska pioneers broke with one-bottom plows when she visits Nebraska June 15.

The First Lady's day in Nebraska will include a tree planting ceremony, a visit with city officials and a tour of Boys Town in Omaha, and later a ride through downtown Lincoln where she will act as Parade Marshal for the Nebraska Days Parade.

Accompanied by Governor Frank Morrison, Mrs. Johnson will plant a tree from the White House grounds on the lawn in front of Strategic Air Command Headquarters. Mrs. Johnson will arrive at Offutt Air Force Base by plane at 8:45 a.m.

While at Offutt, she will command base personnel for efforts to beautify all areas surrounding the installation.

City Employees
Next, in line with her visit which is aimed at emphasizing the state's beautification efforts and its historic heritage of the Old West, Mrs. Johnson will meet with Omaha City employees.

The employees have been participating in "project alert," a program sponsored by Mayor A. V. Sorenson, in which employees report to City Hall any improvements they think are needed in the city.

A visit to Boys Town, where she will be made an honorary citizen, will conclude Mrs. Johnson's activities in Omaha. Following her visit to Omaha, ha, Mrs. Johnson will make a luncheon speech before some 400 delegates to the Governor's Conference on Natural Beauty at the Cornhusker Hotel.

Mrs. Johnson, the governor and his wife, will lead the Nebraska Days Parade following the luncheon.

As things tentatively stand now, Mrs. Johnson will present the Third Annual Buffalo Bill Award to movie actor Charlton Heston.

Heston has been invited to participate in the Nebraska Days festivities as the recipient of the award. Heston's invitation is from the State Game Commission.

Although not yet certain whether Heston will be able to attend, Game Commission information Director Dick Shaffer said he is "99% sure" the actor will attend.

Last year's recipient of the award was cowboy-actor Dale Robertson.

HEW Official Will Address Aging Parley

William C. Bechill, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare's new commissioner on aging, will be the featured speaker Wednesday at the Governor's Conference On Aging in Lincoln.

The Washington official will discuss how the 1965 Older American's Act can assist states and communities to provide or expand services for older people.

Other speakers at the one-day conference, to be held at the Cornhusker Hotel, include Dean Cecil L. Wittson of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, Sen. Calista Cooper Hughes of Humboldt and State Health Director E. A. Rogers and State Public Welfare Director John Gage.

Four Nebraska communities—Omaha, Scottsbluff, Lincoln and Superior—will present their plans for services.

The conference is being sponsored by the newly formed State Advisory Committee on Aging.

Chinese N-Blast Bigger Than Estimated Earlier

Washington (AP)—Red China's third nuclear explosion was a rated Friday as more powerful than originally estimated, but still short of hydrogen bomb force.

Upgrading of the blast was followed by announcement that the first radioactivity in the surface air of the United States, presumably from the May 9 explosion, has been detected.

The Atomic Energy Commission said that on the basis of "information now available" the test blast had a force equivalent to between 200,000 and 500,000 tons of TNT.

This is considerably higher than the 130,000-ton estimate given out by State Department Press Officer Robert McCloskey two days after the explosion.

The Public Health Service reported detection of radioactivity in air samples taken between May 14 and May 17 in Denver; Boise, Idaho; Cheyenne, Wyo.; Berkeley, Calif.; Gastonia, N.C.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Springfield, Ill.; and Salt Lake City.

Officials said the measured levels were far below those which the PHSS regards as creating a public health hazard, and far below the peak levels reached after China's two previous tests.

Job Corps Company Is Formed

Northern Natural Gas Co. Friday announced formation of a wholly owned subsidiary, Management Systems Company, to manage the Lincoln urban Job Corps center for men.

Northern President W. A. Strauss noted that the subsidiary is incorporated in Delaware and has been qualified to do business in Nebraska.

Strauss is chairman of the Management Systems board and president of the subsidiary.

Other Northern officials on the board are Dale Tekolste, group vice president; F. Hugh Roberts, comptroller, and J. O. Grantham, vice president and general manager of Management Systems.

Ross on Board

In addition, Dr. G. Robert Ross, vice chancellor of student affairs at the University of Nebraska, will be a member of the board.

Grantham, who will direct the Job Corps center, emphasized that other activities are within the scope of the new subsidiary.

"Its over-all purpose is to develop a professional and managerial capability and a reservoir of management talent which would enable Management Systems to administer not only the Job Corps project, but other private or governmental projects which would be of economic benefit to Nebraska and the Midlands," Grantham said.

Preparing To Sign

Management Systems is preparing to sign a contract with the federal Office of Economic Opportunity for operation of a Job Corps center at the Lincoln Air Force Base.

The center will have an initial staff of 525 providing vocational instruction and other services to an anticipated enrollment of 1,100 Corpsmen.

End Of Butter Supply Poses Problem In School Lunches

Washington (UPI)—Once there was so much butter in the U.S. surplus stockpile, the government began giving it to school children.

Now it is all gone and the problem is: where do the kids get their butter?

Federal farm officials are facing a major policy decision on the question of butter supplies for school lunchrooms this fall.

These officials say supplies of butter held by the government under the federal dairy price support program are exhausted. And they do not know if there will be any more coming in during the current milk producing season.

Alternatives

So, the policy makers are considering:

—A special federal purchase program. The Agriculture Department has the authority to buy butter for donation from the open market, even when the market price is higher than the support price.

—Doing in the school lunch program what is already being done in donation programs for needy families—buy margarine in place of

HEART PATIENT NO. 2 DIES

Houston, Tex. (AP)—The second man to receive a partial artificial heart implant in less than a month died Friday of what doctors said was uncontrollable chest bleeding.

A Methodist Hospital bulletin said the heart condition of Walter L. McCans, 61, seemed satisfactory until the persistent lung bleeding caused the death.

Black Hills Fire Burns Trees, Grass

By United Press International

Hard winds toppled boxcars from railroad tracks and flipped dozens of small planes in the West Friday. Flooding rains fell in Texas and a forest fire burned out of control in the Black Hills.

The winds threw two boxcars from the tracks and blew down a grain elevator at Casidy, Kan. Earlier in the day, gales destroyed 30 private planes at the North Las Vegas, Nev., air terminal.

Four inches of rain fell at Houston, Tex., in six hours. Lightning struck and killed a man in Kansas City, Mo., as he was coaching a boys baseball team.

Man Who Got Rocky To Albany Guilty Of Playboy Liquor Bribe

New York (AP)—L. Judson Morhouse was convicted Friday in a Playboy Club liquor license bribe deal, a scandal that wrecked his political career.

A former state Republican chairman, he was credited with putting Nelson A. Rockefeller in the governor's chair.

A state supreme court jury found the once-powerful GOP leader guilty on two counts of involvement in a $25,000 bribe by the Playboy Club for a Manhattan liquor license. The prosecution said the money went to Martin Epstein, former chairman of the State Liquor Authority (SLA).

Acquitted On 4

However, the 10 men and two women on the panel acquitted Morhouse of four counts, including one that charged him with trying to shake down club officials for $100,000 for himself as underwriter of the liquor license deal.

Defense attorney Sol Gelb said the verdict will be appealed.

Morhouse faces a maximum of 20 years in prison as a result of the conviction. Justice Abraham Gellinoff released him without bond and scheduled sentencing for June 15.

The trial began May 2; the jury got the case early Thursday afternoon.

Morhouse, 52, as state GOP chairman engineered Rockefeller's entrance into New York state politics and directed his successful 1958 gubernatorial campaign.

Rockefeller, preparing to seek a third term, was not connected in any way with the SLA scandal.

U.S. Won't Let Atom Computers Be Sent France

Washington (UPI)—The State Department acknowledged Friday that the United States has refused to issue an export license for "very high performance" computers needed by France in its nuclear weapons program.

Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said one application for the shipment of such computers to France was turned down this year and others may have been denied earlier.

He added that the United States would continue to deny licenses for shipment of such electronic equipment in cases where it believed the equipment would be used in a nuclear weapons program.

Price Rise For 3 Months Fastest Since Korean War

Washington (AP)—Climbing living costs put another big dent in the American consumer's pocketbook in April, capping the biggest three-month price jump since the Korean War, the government said Friday.

The consumer price index, measuring typical family purchases from shoes to automobiles, rose 0.4% last month, with only food prices showing relative stability, the Labor Department said.

The 1.4% price hike from January to April was the biggest for that period in any year since 1951, said Assistant Commissioner Arnold Chase of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

At the same time, the bureau reported a drop in the average earnings of some 14 million factory workers because of cutbacks in manufacturing reflected in earlier government reports indicating a general downturn in the nation's economy.

Chase refused to comment on what affect the newly reported increase in prices may have on the economic policies of President Johnson, who reportedly has been considering possible tax hikes or some other means of taking the inflationary steam out of the economy.

The April increase brought the consumer price index to 112.5% of its 1957-1959 average, showing that goods worth $10 in the earlier period cost $11.25 last month.

Speculation that President Johnson may not have to resort to a tax increase followed government reports earlier this week of declines in such key economic indicators as manufacturing orders, housing construction, industrial production and employment, retail sales and personal income.

Peggy Feels 'Much Better'

Shade Gap, Pa. (AP)—Seated in a wheel chair, clutching a vase of roses, Peggy Ann Bradnick came out of seclusion Friday for the first time since her rescue Wednesday from a kidnapper.

She had little to say.

"I feel much better than when I came here Wednesday," murmured the pretty 17-year-old girl, her eyes lowered, her voice barely audible in the 20-by-25-foot waiting room of the Fulton County Medical Center.

Packed

The room was jammed with newsmen, television and newsreel cameras as the girl was wheeled in past a state trooper guarding the room. Her mother and father stood alongside their daughter.

The 10-minute news conference was limited by her doctor, minister and parents to questions about the state of her health and her future plans. The story of Peggy's seven-day ordeal in the woods with a kidnapper has been sold to a national magazine.

From across the room onlookers could see blotchy bruises on both her legs, the result of being pulled through the woods on the end of a chain by her abductor, William Diller Hollenbaugh, 44. Hollenbaugh was shot to death Wednesday in a gun duel and Peggy Ann rescued.

Laughter

Flashing a warm smile, she drew a big laugh when a TV reporter asked whether she had been watching television in the hospital, Peggy Ann replied:

"I never look at TV much. I never cared for it."

She said her future included going back to school and finishing her general business course. She said she would like to be a beautician more than anything else.

When a question turned to her experience, the session was ended abruptly by the Rev. Raymond Piper, 28-year-old minister of the United Evangelical Brethren Church in Shade Gap.

"That's it," he snapped. The conference was over.

Treated Well

Before Peggy Ann was wheeled into the waiting room the minister read a statement signed by Peggy Ann. In addition to thanking her friends, neighbors, the state police, the FBI and others who joined in the search, she said:

"Under the conditions, he (Hollenbaugh) treated me as well as he could. He did not purposely harm me in any way other than the fear, the tension and the hardship of being in the woods and being away from my family. I was not seriously harmed in any way."

The statement also referred to the "Mountain Man," as Hollenbaugh was known in the community of Shade Gap.

The "Mountain Man" had terrorized the area for two years, firing rifle shots at unsuspecting residents. Two were wounded.

She said: "Due to the fact that he told me he was the mountain man, the people may have a freer mind."

Meanwhile, funeral services were held in Harrisburg Friday for the FBI agent shot by Hollenbaugh during the intensive manhunt, Terry Ray Anderson, 42. Eight FBI agents escorted the casket into Grace Methodist Church for the service. The widow, four children, mother and FBI agent brother, John of Omaha, were present. Burial will be in Washington, Iowa.

Hollenbaugh will be buried Saturday in Mifflintown, Pa.

Moon Craft Makes Good Test Landing

Alamogordo, N.M. (AP)—Hopes for a successful soft landing on the moon by an unmanned Surveyor spacecraft were bolstered by Friday's slow descent and soft landing of a test vehicle on the southern New Mexico desert.

The first of two Surveyor lunar trips planned this year is set for launch May 30 from Cape Kennedy, Fla. Five more are planned next year, space officials reported.

Friday's test involved a 225-pound version of the 2,000-pound Surveyor that is to be launched toward the moon atop an Atlas-Centaur rocket. The 250,000-mile trip is to take 63 hours.

Death Saddens Class Reunion

They came from great distances, these sentimental senior citizens.

Drawn by a common experience in their long-ago past, the surviving members of Cotner University Class of 1911 gathered in Lincoln Friday in anticipation of their class reunion Saturday night.

Out of 24 members of the graduating class in 1911, 55 years ago, 16 survive, one of the group said Friday evening.

But by late Friday night the number was 15.

Death came to class member Mrs. Helen C. Squires, 75, of 1313 H. She was the wife of Rollin A. Squires. The couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1961.

Mrs. Squires was a member of the First Christian Church, Al PEO and Eastern Star.

Cotner University was founded in 1887 when 321 acres were donated to the Nebraska Christian Missionary Board. Classes began two years later in a private home and continued there until being moved to a five-story Victorian building on the donated land.

The building was located between Leighton and Holdrege, just east of Cotner Blvd. in Bethany. H. Earnest Parminter of Whittier, Calif., host for the reunion, said.

The depression claimed the college as a victim and it closed in 1935. The building was torn down in the early 50s, but the school reappeared as the Cotner School of Religion with facilities adjacent to the University of Nebraska's city and ag campuses.

1911 stayed in close contact through the years. "We had a round-robin letter which would bring us news of the other class members every two months," Parminter said.

Different Philosophies "Of course, we all have different philosophies and outlooks on life," he said. "But in the face of this there is a close friendship between us, making these reunions less difficult to organize and very enjoyable."

Parminter pointed out that some of the members were coming from as far away as Washington, California, and Florida.

Only three of the surviving members of the Class of 1911 were unable to be in Lincoln for the reunion.

Closest Class "We were probably the closest of the classes at Cotner," Parminter pointed out. "We had one reunion two years ago and one a year before that plus our correspondence with each other throughout the 55 years since our graduation."

There was no way to determine late Friday night what members of the Class of 1911 planned for their reunion in the light of the death of Mrs. Squires.

But this closest of the classes at Cotner, its numbers diminished by one, seemed certain to close ranks a bit more.

Frontier Airline

Profit Increases

By The Associated Press Frontier Airlines' earnings in April were $124,801, Lewis W. Dymond, chairman of the Denver-based firm reported.

Dymond said there was a 56% growth in passenger miles over April 1965.

For the first four months of 1966, Dymond said, the firm had an average 47% gain over the four-month period last year, and a 62% increase in earnings.

Lincoln Plan For 90 ETV Programs OK'd

Omaha (AP) — In a change of signals, the Metropolitan Omaha Educational Broadcasting Association has approved a Lincoln prepared plan to spend about $275,000 of federal money to produce 90 educational television programs.

The association gave Project ASERT (Availability of Supplemental Educational Resources by Television) a "reluctantly unanimous" okay. Omaha School Supt. Paul A. Miller said. He is association chairman.

The association refused to approve the project a week ago saying it needed further study. Dr. Miller said association members now are satisfied it should be funded for one year.

Horsemen Hike Fund

The search for those responsible for the mutilation of horses in the Lincoln area moved to the state level and gained the added impetus of a $1,000 reward at a meeting of Lincoln horsemen and law enforcement officers Friday night.

The meeting followed one earlier in the week that horsemen had called to formulate a plan for the capture of those responsible for several castrations and attempted castrations of horses in Lincoln and Lancaster County.

Besides local police officers, representatives of the Lancaster County sheriff's office and the State Highway Patrol, members of the State Department of Agriculture and the Lincoln Humane Society attended Friday night's meeting.

Putting Out Feelers

Dr. Lee Wilcox, head of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the State Department of Agriculture, said he is putting out feelers to veterinarians throughout the state in an effort to determine whether the problem is strictly local or whether it has happened outside Nebraska.

In all, nine castrations or attempted castrations in Southeast Nebraska, seven of which occurred in the Lincoln area, were reported Friday night by law enforcement officers.

In addition, several horsemen said they know of cases in which the tails of ponies have been cut off.

One pony died from loss of blood, they said.

There have been no castrations or attempts since attacks were made on horses owned by the Rev. R. E. Spangler, 5125 LaSalle, and Dr. L. D. Cherry, 2040 So. 35th. Both attacks which occurred May 11.

These two incidents set horsemen on the trail for those responsible. In less than a week, their original $500 reward fund has grown to $1,000.

"Someone Will Talk"

"Somewhere, over a beer, or somewhere else, somebody who knows is going to think about how all that money could be his—and he's going to talk," Police Chief Joe T. Carroll told the horsemen Friday night.

Due to the large turnout of some 60 horse owners, a third meeting set for Thursday at 7 p.m. has been moved from Arrow Stables to the College View Livestock Commission Co., 52nd and Neb. 2.

A GOING-AWAY SALUTE

Yvonne Pineau, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Norman T. Pineau, reads a salute to General Arnold School, prepared by members of the sixth grade. Principal Dr. Corwin Enevoldsen accepted the salute for the school. This year's sixth grade, promoted Friday, is General Arnold's last. The school is closing because Lincoln Air Force Base is being phased out. Most of the students were Air Force dependents. (Star Photo.)

Vreeland Prizes Awarded To 6 NU Fine Arts Students

The 1966 Vreeland prizes for students who have excelled in the fine arts were awarded to six University of Nebraska students Friday afternoon in special ceremonies at the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery.

The number of students receiving awards was doubled from three to six for the second year in a row with the accrued proceeds from the Vreeland bequest, administered by the University Foundation.

The $400 Francis William Vreeland Awards in art went to Sharon Behrends of 300 So. 24th, Lincoln, a graduate student, and Gunars Strazdins of 3017 S. 17th, Lincoln, a senior. Miss Behrends is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Behrends of Lincoln and Strazdins is the son of Mrs. Elvira Strazdins of Lincoln.

An exhibition of art by Miss Behrends and Strazdins is on display at the Sheldon Gallery. The exhibition continues through June 20.

The John H. Vreeland awards in English went to Judith Little of Hays, Kansas, a graduate student and Lance Towle of Norfolk, a junior in English. Miss Little is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Little and Towle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald D. Towle.

The $300 Ida M. Vreeland awards in music were presented to Robert Edson of Omaha, a graduate student, and Eugene O'Brien of Omaha, a junior in music. Edson, who will become band director for Omaha Benson High School next fall, was cited for his composition "Synthesis No. 1 for Winds and Percussion" and O'Brien was recognized for his work, "Requiem for Soprano, Chorus and Wind Ensemble."

O'Brien is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. O'Brien of Omaha and Edson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Edson of Omaha.

LBJ Nominates Massachusetts District Judge

Washington (AP) — President Johnson announced Friday he will nominate W. Arthur Garrity Jr. to be a U.S. district judge for Massachusetts.

This is the position for which Johnson once nominated Francis X. Morrissey, a friend of the Kennedy family. Morrissey's nomination was withdrawn at his request after it had stirred up a controversy. Some leaders of the bar contended Morrissey lacked qualifications to be a federal judge.

Garrity now is U.S. attorney for Massachusetts. He has held that post since April 13, 1961. He will be 43 next month.

Still In Coma From Insecticide, Man Awarded $96,000 Judgment

A 44-year-old Scotts Bluff County farmer has been awarded a judgment for $96,000 in a lawsuit growing out of alleged damage to health from the use of an insecticide.

Federal District Judge Robert Van Pelt granted the judgment to First National Bank and Trust Co. of Wyoming as guardian of the estate of Herman Neu, incompetent.

The defendant, Howard McLean Co., a potato production and brokerage firm, had offered to allow the judgment to be taken against it in that amount.

The plaintiffs originally asked $480,000.

The suit was brought against both the McLean Co. and the Chemagro Corp., a Missouri corporation manufacturing and distributing insecticides, but Chemagro subsequently was dismissed as a defendant.

The plaintiffs alleged that Neu contracted to produce potatoes for McLean in 1964, with McLean to furnish the seed and insecticide and harvest the crop, but with Neu to plant and husband the potatoes to maturity. The contract called for the use of a specific insecticide, which Neu was to apply.

According to the petition, Neu absorbed some of the insecticide and became totally disabled as a result. The petition said the insecticide caused Neu's heart to stop for about five minutes and this "utterly destroyed the effectiveness of Neu's central nervous system and he thereby became and still is totally disabled, unconscious, incompetent, unable to celebrate and comatose." Neu was said to have suffered permanent loss of brain functions and all voluntary body functions.

Warmer temperatures are expected over most of the two state region as more sunny days will penetrate eastward. Sunday temperatures will be a bit cooler over much of the area, especially in Nebraska. There will be little change in Iowa. There are chances of a few showers again Saturday night but this time mainly in southwest Iowa and a small area of southeast Nebraska. In the outlook for Sunday are a few possible showers developing in the west of northwest Nebraska in the afternoon in response to a Pacific front moving in at that time.

Quebec's Firm Ambition

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

MONTREAL, Canada—With its enchantment, its opportunity, its resources and its phenomenal economic progress, Montreal might be considered by most U.S. citizens as a city without problems. Unfortunately, nothing could be further from the truth than this. Montreal, of course, as a part of all Canada and Quebec, is only one-third of the nation in terms of population.

As such, Montreal and the Province of Quebec share with her nine sister provinces an ever mounting U.S. economic influence throughout this North American nation. Canadians, of course, want U.S. investment and U.S. technology and do not hesitate to admit that U.S. economic involvement has been a vital factor for them. It is when this economic involvement comes to include political involvement that the Canadians take exception. Canadians view with alarm what they see as a growing intervention on the part of the U.S. federal government in the affairs of private industry. When the U.S. government forces its will upon U.S. corporations it doesn't stop at any border. The terms of this government relationship apply, as well, to U.S. firms in foreign lands.

When the U.S. uses American business as a tool of foreign policy, then Canada believes foreign American investments should be exempted. Otherwise, through such things as the anti-trust law, the Securities and Exchange Commission, other regulatory agencies and stipulations governing sales to foreign enemies, the U.S. comes to control the economies and foreign policy of those nations such as Canada in which U.S. business investment is heavy.

One might wonder, too, if there isn't among the Canadian people some resentment of the U.S. influence. We expect French Canadians to speak English but none of us ever bothers to attempt French. The market places of Montreal are filled with U.S. products and American cars fill the streets of the city and surrounding highways.

But as serious as this problem is to U.S.-Canadian relations, it takes second place in the minds of many Quebec citizens. They are concerned with their relations with their neighbors as they are with Canada's relations with the United States. For the French Canadian, the big matter to be settled is Quebec sovereignty. Here again, one finds a seeming contradiction, a complementary political situation with the cultural contrasts that exist in Montreal. While a city and a province most progressive and liberal in its economic attitude and business, it is politically an arch-conservative region. It is literally obsessed with the thought of independence from the national government. Even now, Quebec is the only province of 10 in which the taxpayer makes two separate income tax returns, one to the province and one to the federal government. Elsewhere, one is made to the federal government and the provinces given their pro-rated share in return.

The problem is billed as bi-lingualism and bi-culturalism and the more imaginative thinkers can visualize it as the rock on which the nation of Canada could actually be split in two. But Quebec Prime Minister Jean Lesage, his title another testimonial to Quebec independence, sees total independence for his province as unthinkable. He is keenly aware of the French Canadian view of history. With the French Canadian, the history of Canada started in 1760 when England conquered the nation.

But French Canadian or Quebec history dates back another 160 years to founding by French explorers. The French Canadians speak in terms of separation and of two majorities. Now, they see only one majority and it is Anglo-Saxon Protestant, a situation they do not intend to live with forever.

Quebec might be likened to the ardent states righters in the United States. The province seeks constitutional changes that will guarantee her a voice in the affairs of the nation as well as autonomy in those fields which she thinks are reserved to the provinces in the British-North American Act of nearly a hundred years ago.

The conflict is the natural result of the heavy French heritage that is held and cultivated by a vast majority of the people of Quebec. In the view of Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau, it is the responsibility of Quebec to provide Canada with a mixture of old world charm and modern progress. For Mayor Drapeau, Prime Minister Lesage and others, the role of Quebec is as a link between Europe and America. At the same time, they feel there is a multitude of values in their French heritage, values that they have a right as well as a responsibility to preserve. In their minds, they are seeking the welfare of Canada, not its destruction. And, of course, they feel the ineptitude that is often associated with minority status. In taxation, education, commerce and other fields, they want to make their own decisions. In one major difference with U.S. states righters, Quebec is economically on the move, a vibrant center of commerce and industry.

The details of the kind of nation Quebec would fashion in Canada seem to be lacking but the broad outline of her ambition is clear. Regardless of the rest of Canada, Quebec has a spirit and an ambition that are clearly understood by its inhabitants. Its foundation is French, though it is largely bi-lingual, and it intends to build a French superstructure.

The French Heritage

Romney's Challenge

Nebraskans, whatever their political affiliations, should be intrigued by the political philosophy of Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

Speaking here at a Republican fund raising dinner he did not say that great problems do not exist or would go away of their own accord. The argument as he sees it is over the method of solving them. An unorganized, indifferent public can delegate all the worry and work to the government. Or the people of the country, informed and sensitive to the problems, can organize themselves and go after the solutions on the grass roots level. He feels the people, properly oriented, can do the job better.

No one can fault his argument. And no one can say that the American people themselves lack the power to solve the problems of social inequality or national unity.

But let it be emphasized that his alternative will work only if the public is willing to share the responsibility and go to work at the job. He was not saying what his party would do, but what we as a people must do.

Mr. Romney is not just an idealist. He is of the Mormon faith. The Mormons did not accept public assistance to any degree during the great depression. They helped one another and they survived. He knows the power at the grass roots.

He brings a valuable thought to American public life.

If we agree with him we should ask ourselves, "Are we ready to make such an effort?"

'Evil Eye' On Mutual Funds

The Securities and Exchange Commission is beginning to put the "evil eye" on the country's fairly recent but rapidly growing financial industry known as mutual funds.

Mutual funds attract both large and small investors but mainly the small ones. Those with a few hundred dollars to invest without stock market knowhow have considered them a boon. Most of the funds are well managed and return what their investors consider to be a greater return on their money than they themselves could get. The SEC's malevolent interest in the operation of the funds will not win it many friends among this group of small investors. It seems to think that the funds charge the investors too high a fee for getting into the lodge. It also frowns on the fund's management fee, running as high as the one per cent of gross assets per year and deductible before dividends are paid.

We don't know how this struggle on the battlefield of finance will come out, but from a national welfare point of view it is the bigness of the funds that needs watching first and the relationship with the funds' operating arrangement in relation to the happy subscribers ought to be of secondary concern.

Combined, these funds preside over more than $35 billion in investible money and even in Wall Street that is a lot of money. It is enough under certain circumstances to wreck the market and bring woe to the country.

Editorial Of The Day

The CIA Above The Law?

From The St. Louis Post-Dispatch
President Johnson probably will be asked to remind the CIA that it is not above the law. An appeal to him is being planned in connection with a case now pending in Federal court in Baltimore. It is a suit for damages by a man who charges that he was falsely accused of being a Soviet agent by an employee of the CIA.

The hush-hush agency, however, has refused to allow its employee to make a deposition, and it has asked that the case be thrown out of court. Its claim is that the accusation was made under orders, and that the employee therefore was speaking for the Government which, of course, cannot be sued.

The CIA, like the FBI before it, fears that its secrets might be revealed in testimony under oath. But are CIA secrets entitled to greater protection than the law affords an American citizen? And what of the amazing implications of the CIA's theory?

Under it, an employee of the CIA or almost any other Government agency might be ordered by a relatively minor official to blacken reputations or otherwise violate the rights of citizens. Yet there would be no way of holding the agent or his superior to account-ability. There would be no way of assuring a citizen of justice. That's how it is in a police state.

The CIA would not become involved in situations such as this one if it confined itself to gathering information—and we trust, solid, factual information—and avoided overt activities at home and abroad.

"No Consensus Yet"

DREW PEARSON

In The Power Of The Oligarchs

WASHINGTON — Sometimes it looks as if government in Washington is by oligarchy instead of a democracy under a republic. The oligarchs are the congressional committee chairmen who tell the executive branch of government in no uncertain terms what they can or cannot do.

Here are three illustrations of government by oligarchy:

1. The House Armed Services Committee, chaired by an alcoholic, has branded McNamara as a "Caesar," largely because McNamara is the first secretary of defense who has truly exercised his constitutional power instead of delegating it to the generals and to Congress.

2. Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., has flatly refused to consider relaxing restrictions on trade with European communist countries, even though all of these countries are edging away from Moscow and need more western trade in order to do so. One of them, Rumania, has edged so far away that in the same week oligarch Mills issued his veto of the President, Comrade Breshnev had to make a special trip from Moscow to Bucharest to try to stop the drift.

3. Sen. Jim Eastland of the sometimes-called oligarchy of Mississippi is able to pass any link with military endeavor.

McNamara said that "inequality" in selective service would be removed by his plan. This is hardly a sentiment which will find echo in the military and naval hospitals treating the Viet Nam war wounded. It could lead, too, into a thorny thicket of questions of privilege even greater than that in which Selective Service is now trapped by its own deferment rules.

This was immediately apparent to the practical politicians who make up Congress, and their comments offered the only immediate dissent to what seems to be many members a political bombshell of undetermined importance and potential.

Defenders of the President are asking privately about McNamara's timing. The foreign policy debate continues with a bitterness that does not seem to recede in the face of Johnson's hostility toward his critics. There are no signs that civil stability, much less a military solution, is near in Viet Nam.

Others note that such a speech would seem more appropriate to the secretary of state. But the Washington grapevine has long been saying that the real hard-liner in Johnson councils is not the driving defense secretary but the bland Dean Rusk.

Also being recalled were Kennedy administration reports that the late President, disappointed in Rusk, was considering promoting McNamara to state and letting his brother, Robert, then attorney general, prove himself at the Pentagon.

It seemed a reasonable speculation at the time.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON
Story of the week was the UPI report on the tragedy at Indianapolis.

The Outhouse Affair, that is.

In case you missed it, here's the lead: "A balloon minus its pilot knocked over a wooden outdoor toilet Sunday at the Indianapolis Speedway, injuring two women inside."

Mercifully, the ladies were unidentifiable.

They were also, presumably, unhappy.

Seems the balloon got away from its ground crew before the pilot could get aboard. So apparently the ground crew was chasing the thing as it approached its target, and our two unsuspecting victims.

If the whole thing had been filmed, it would be a smash. We could call it: "Where were you when the balloon hit the outhouse?"

While we're at it, there was also a rouser from AP which you may have missed. About the black mamba.

The mamba is a big old snake which, unlike other snakes, attacks its victim even though unprovoked. It's especially in a nasty mood during the mating season.

This snake chases its target at such a swift pace that a third of it is actually suspended in the air.

A mamba chased two people on horseback once, caught and killed all four of them. Another took after some people in a jeep once and, though the jeep was tearing down the road as fast as it could go, the mamba was holding his own—until shot to death by one of the pursued.

The snake's bite kills in less than two minutes. If you don't die first of heart failure.

Happy dreams, all you snake-haters.

Do Farm Bureau Federation members stand to gain more in tax relief from the constitutional amendment guaranteeing state aid for schools from broadened tax base revenue than they do from an amendment outlawing the state property tax system?

It's a question they might ponder.

Farm Bureau petitions would request a vote on a constitutional amendment barring the state from the property tax field.

But, already on the ballot is an amendment which would take the state out of the property tax field except to finance capital construction projects and require that at least 20% of broadened tax base revenue be returned to the schools.

That state assistance to schools would reduce the local property tax levy.

The question is: Which plan would provide the most actual property tax relief for farmers?

Only one of the amendments—at the most—can prevail in November.

Wandering:
—Seen in Lincoln on the car of a long-suffering GOP partisan, a bumper sticker proclaiming: "Happiness is a Republican Governor."

—Unhappiness is Lucy and Linus leaving the neighborhood. But, wait, here's a bulletin: They're back. Good for their Dad, their good, old, wishy-washy dad.

—Twenty thousand over-taxed Nebraskans bet more than a million bucks on the ponies at Ak-Sar-Ben last Saturday, and probably will do so again today.

—Rural electric leader view with alarm the rising operating expenses of Loup River Public Power District. Their figures indicate Loup's expenditures for the first three months of 1966 jumped to $278,678 from $185,374 in 1965 and $157,787 in 1964. Expenditures this year are 50.33% higher than those for last year.

—Preliminary figures indicate that John Everroad won 36 counties while Ken Bowen captured 33 in the GOP primary contest for lieutenant governor. Sam Klaver's 99 votes apparently won him Rock County (Bassett) far from his Omaha home base.

—No one is suggesting a tuition increase to meet the apparent budget deficiency at the Nebraska Penal Complex.

—Despite the obvious fact that the right of dissent should be particular—upheld and defended by a free press, witness the slick, sustained destruction of the image of Senator Fulbright by some influential national publications.

Perfect System

Lincoln, Neb.
Nuna Knox (Star, May 17) condemns the Christians for the evils of our society. This is only partially correct and all who profess to be Christians are not righteous. Not only do most Christians, so-called, not keep the Commandments. They do not even know what these are and what they teach.

How many people know that the commandments, statutes and judgments of God contain the economic blueprint for a perfect and just system, and there would be no hungry and distressed peoples? For 400 years these laws made possible no poverty.

Every ill the peoples of the world suffer is caused by failure to apply the economic laws of God, especially the monetary, land and taxation laws.

A. F. KEARNS Parcel Post Bill

Lincoln, Neb.
The Subcommittee on Postal Rates of the House Committee on Post Office and Civil Service has reported out HR 12367, a bill to revise the size and weight limits on parcel post. Section 3 of this bill is particularly dangerous because it would raise the parcel post weight limits between first-class post offices to 40 pounds and the size to combined 100-inch limit. If this bill becomes law, the Railway Express Company will become bankrupt, many workers will lose their jobs and it could mean a further curtailment in rail passenger service.

To the agreement that the post office deficit would be cut down, the public can look at it this way. If the Railroad Express Agency goes bankrupt, the money saved in the post office deficit will have to be used to help them or else there will be no railway express service, at all.

ROBERT A. McMAHON
Greenwood, Neb.

The Star's story about the marriage-divorce law meeting made much of the proposal to enforce present laws more strictly. What that particular speaker meant, of course, was stricter enforcement of child support laws—which are already enforced to the point where a man has been arrested for not keeping up his support payments while he lay flat on his back in a hospital for eight weeks following an auto accident.

However, this is not the only law covering divorce matters. Any woman who refuses to honor visitation orders is in contempt of court, the same as a man who refused to pay support. How about enforcing both? By law, any woman who has committed adultery is unfit to have custody of children. How about enforcing this? The man has the right to select the place of the family's residence and the work with which he earns their living. The Nebraska Supreme Court has ruled that any woman who refused without cause to live where the husband specifies is guilty of desertion and entitled to nothing. Why are the women invariably granted divorces, child custody, support and ADC?

Nebraska law gives the court authority to adjust alimony or support if the parties' circumstances change. The Nebraska Supreme Court has ruled that the court must adjust support when the man becomes ill or unemployed, and adjust it again when the man's income is restored. How about enforcing this, instead of either jailing the man for not paying support during periods like this or letting it pile up until it can never be paid?

Certainly we favor stricter enforcement of the law.

New Center

Lincoln, Neb.
I do not own any property in the area involved but I certainly hope that the Planning Commission and the City Council will approve the proposed shopping center and apartment house complex in the area east of 48th Street and between O and Vine Streets.

I am familiar with this area and it is entirely unsuited for single-family dwellings. The area is practically surrounded by business. A fine shopping center with a high-rise apartment house and some garden apartments would be a very distinct improvement for the entire city. It is time that we encouraged those who are willing to invest money in Lincoln's future.

No Camera Fun

My heart goes out to "M. Z." in the May 18 Star for the rude treatment received at Pershing Auditorium. What a gala time we could all have had, each with our flash camera and jumping up and down to get our favorite shot. I, too, paid money both to see and hear the entertainers but since apparently we were the only ones who did, the rest of the crowd should have been quiet and let us have our fun.

Perhaps "M. Z." and I should have been given special VIP buttons to wear and the employees would not have disturbed us.

Widow Feels Too Many Friends Can Mean Loss Of Privacy

By ROBERT PETERSON
Q. "I'm a widow with too many friends. Everywhere I go I meet people who say they want to know me better, who keep my phone ringing constantly and keep inviting me to go places. Isn't it a fact one can have so many friends that he's deprived of all privacy?"
A. You've got a rare problem. The only other person on record with a similar complaint was Elsa Maxwell who said she had so many friends she had no alternative but to neglect half of them.

Q. "Why should retired folks be forced to pay the going tax rate? Half the taxes in our community go to support public schools—yet my wife and I haven't had kids in school for 28 years. Don't you agree young people with children should pay a higher tax rate?"
A. Yes, there should be some relation between local tax rates and the number of children one has in school. This would help make young couples aware that education costs money and that the size of families should be somewhat geared to the size of incomes. About a dozen states offer elder property owners with limited incomes a modest tax reduction.

Q. "I've not had a pet since I was a teenager with a kitten. What kind of pet do you recommend for an old lady of 72 living alone in a three-room ground floor apartment?"

A. I'm a dog man. I think that of all God's creatures, the dog is the most faithful and ideal pet. A dog wants to be at its master's side all the time, and seems to understand and reflect human moods. Just make sure you feel up to walking your pooch twice daily, or that there's an enclosed play area where it can get proper exercise.

Q. "My husband and I live with mother, who has become a pain in the neck. She invited us to live here rent free when Dad passed on, just to keep her company. But she treats us like children and even pops in to tuck us into bed. She insists we take her with us wherever we go, and if we protest she puts on a scene and moans and groans."

A. You should waste no time moving to quarters of your own. It's apparent your mother has become emotionally dependent on you, and the continual close proximity has caused you to lose the sense of tenderness a daughter should feel toward her mother. When you get established elsewhere, encourage your mother to join clubs and make friends in her own age bracket. See if you can't get her interested in a part-time job or volunteer work.

State Supreme Court Orders New Trial In Damages Suit

The State Supreme Court Friday reversed in part a Valley District Court jury decision in a damages suit resulting from a traffic accident near Ord.

The high court ordered a new trial to determine the amount of damages to be paid.

The district court jury awarded $6,162 in damages to Harold E. Scofield for injuries suffered in the accident, and John Haskell, the defendant, appealed to the Supreme Court.

"We are convinced that the jury has settled the issue of liability herein fairly and upon sufficient evidence," the Supreme Court concluded. "We determine the only error to be the restriction of the cross-examination of a medical witness," Scofield's orthopedic specialist.

The court said Haskell's attorney has a right to cross-examine all witnesses "on any point that could have any bearing on" Scofield's physical condition either before or after the accident.

Since the orthopedic specialist was called to the stand by Scofield's attorney, the right of privileged communications between Scofield and his doctor was waived, the court said.

In another ruling Friday the court:

—Reversed a Douglas District Court ruling that the lower court did not have jurisdiction to determine the liability of Samuel Gerber Advertising Agency, Inc., in a contract dispute with Muller Enterprises, Inc.

The Supreme Court in a previous decision said Gerber was obligated under a contract to pay Muller 10% of the clearance fees received by Gerber through its advertising program for Service Life Insurance Co.

The high court said it recognized that the decision might require further accounting to carry out the intent of the judgment, and it ordered the Douglas District Court to conduct the further proceedings.

EVERGREENS

Do You Know About Viability?

It is unlawful in Nebraska to sell or offer for sale non-viable (non-livable) nursery stock. The sap of all evergreens is resinous, and if this resin hardens by drying out or poor handling before purchase, no amount of good care on your part will revive the tree. We do not sell non-viable trees; neither do we sell evergreen species, many of which grow in the South, (such as Arborvitae or Spiny Greek Juniper) but which, in this area, winter kill outright or over a period of a few years. In most cases, nursery stock can not be successfully handled like groceries or dry goods.

We have many especially fine evergreens. It is too late to dig some species out of the field, but we have many superior species in containers that are in prime condition; some are small, but most folks would prefer to have a small live one than a big dead one.

Crete Auto Company Placed On Probation For 6 Months

The State Motor Vehicle Dealers License Board Friday placed the Jack Applebee Chevrolet Co. of Crete on six months' probation following a hearing for suspension or revocation of the company's dealer license.

The board's complaint alleged that Applebee or his agents transferred two new cars on a manufacturer's certificate to "Sherm Brooks of Dorchester," using a notarized signature that was fictitious and a fictitious Dorchester address.

Jack Applebee testified the firm sold the two new cars to Sherm Brooks, a Fort Collins, Colo., used car dealer on Nov. 30, 1965, and that Brooks had authorized an Applebee employee by telephone and letter to sign his name so as to obtain a Nebraska certificate of title.

To Sell Used

The board was informed that Brooks, licensed only to sell used cars, needed a Nebraska title on the new cars sold him by Applebee so as to sell them as used vehicles in Colorado.

Applebee testified that he has sold more than 100 used and new cars to the Colorado dealer over the years, and consented to the method of transfer used by his salesman.

Mrs. Marjorie Applebee, the firm's office manager and notary public, testified she notarized the "Sherm Brooks" signature, feeling she had "done nothing wrong legally" because of the Brooks' authorizing letter.

Jim Schnerl, a Dorchester garage owner, explained that he reported the two car titles to the board because he knew of no Sherm Brooks in the Dorchester area.

Lot of Investigation

"A lot of investigation is going on in our county as to car thefts," he said. "I didn't intend to jeopardize Mr. Applebee's license."

Schnerl requested the board to "drop the matter" because he said it was now clear that the Applebee firm had done nothing wrong.

Calvin Robinson, assistant attorney general representing the board, contended that Applebee "violated Nebraska law at least in using a fictitious address on the car title if not also in the notarized signature."

But Lincoln attorney Robert Nelson, representing Applebee, replied, "If there was any violation, it was only nominal and unintentional. No one has been harmed."

In placing the Applebee firm on probation until Dec. 1, the board suspended imposition of a 10-day dealer license suspension order during the probationary period.

Cited Previously

Board members also noted that the Applebee firm had been cited previously and warned against "future irregularities" in the notarizing and transfer of car titles.

The board deferred action until its June 17 meeting on a dealer's license citation against Ralph Pillow Auto Sales Inc. of Lincoln.

Action was deferred following hearing involving the complaint of a Lincoln man regarding a car purchase.

However, the board directed the Pillow firm to turn in the salesman license of a former employee, Harlow Mahler.

College Students Safe From Draft If Quota Is Low

Dallas, Tex. (AP)—Very few if any college students will be drafted unless the monthly quota jumps over 30,200 men, the director of the Selective Service System says.

U. S. Gen. Lewis Hershey said non-students and college dropouts are in sufficient numbers to fill current military needs.

Hershey, in Dallas to attend the annual meeting of the national council of the Boy Scouts of America, made his remarks to a Dallas Times Herald reporter.

He said college students are not deferred because they have "any inherent right or special quality come down from heaven," but rather because colleges must plan for the future manpower needs of society.

Selective Service assumes that a college graduate will make a more productive citizen than the non-graduate, Hershey said, adding that this is the basis the agency must go on.

Soviet Diplomat Commits Suicide

Buenos Aires (AP)—Boris F. Soukhomlinov, counselor at the Soviet embassy, has committed suicide, presidential sources said Friday.

The Soviet embassy refused to comment. A foreign ministry source said the embassy had notified the ministry of the death but declined to give details. Reports in diplomatic circles said he shot or hanged himself, and it may have been three days ago.

English Awards To Four At NU

Four University of Nebraska students were named recipients of awards in the English Department Friday afternoon.

Cater R. Chamblée, graduate student from Alexandria, Va., received the $100 Academy of American Poets award for his sonnet sequence. He is the son of Mrs. Annie Chamblée.

Honorable mention awards went to Bruce E. Rippeteau, a junior from Watertown, N. Y., and Susan Diffenderfer, a sophomore from Lincoln. Rippeteau is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrel R. Rippeteau and Miss Diffenderfer is the daughter of Mrs. Virginia I. Diffenderfer.

Mrs. Gwen Krieser of Garland was awarded the $50 Prairie Schooner Fiction Award. A graduate student, Mrs. Krieser is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lyon of Lincoln. Her winning short story was entitled "The Divine Guide."

Oregon Senate Hopefuls Argue About Viet Nam

Portland, Ore. (AP)—Two candidates for the Democratic senatorial nomination disagreed again Friday on whether the United States should be involved in the war in Viet Nam.

Howard Morgan, speaking at Oregon State University in Corvallis, said, "The folly of the Viet Nam war is more apparent than ever before."

Rep. Robert B. Duncan, addressing the Downtown Lions Club in Portland, said he is running for the Senate because he could see no one else in the campaign willing to support a policy of containing communism.

Draw Attention

They are winding up their campaigns in Oregon's primary election. Voting will be Tuesday. Their campaign has drawn wide attention because it is one of the first in which the war in Viet Nam is clearly a significant issue.

A third candidate, Gilbert Meyer, is also running, but he is not expected to get many votes.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a vigorous critic of President Johnson's Vietnam policies, has said he will vote for Gov. Mark Hatfield in November if Morgan doesn't win. Hatfield seeks the Republican nomination to the Senate against Walter Huxslo.

who has run for office previously without success.

Hatfield also opposed Johnson's policies in Viet Nam.

The seat at stake is held by Sen. Maurine Neuberger, a Democrat, who is not running for re-election.

State Chairman

Morgan, 52, is former Democratic state chairman and served on the Federal Power Commission for two years.

Morgan said Friday the very least Johnson should do is to call for a defensive pause in the war.

"This war cannot succeed without a regime that commands the respect of the South Vietnamese people and a Vietnamese army that can pacify the country."

"Yet though the fighting qualities of the South Vietnamese are now being demonstrated more and more against one another, the President's orders are sending more and more Americans into the battle to replace the Vietnamese who are fighting among themselves."

Rubber Stamp

Duncan, 45, twice elected to Congress and a member of the House Appropriations committee, has supported Johnson's Vietnam policies, but he denied Friday he is a rubber stamp for the President.

"When I was first trying for election to Congress," he said, "I was accused of being a rubber stamp for Wayne Morse."

Duncan has held that communism must be contained in Southeast Asia lest it spread

Six NU Students Fined After Firecrackers Start Blaze

Six University of Nebraska students were fined $50 each in Lancaster County Court Friday on charges of disturbing the peace.

The charges stemmed from a fire at 345 So. 27th early Friday morning. Some $4,000 in damage was done to the upper floor of the building, which is used as a Sigma Delta Phi Fraternity annex, police said.

The fire occurred about 2 a.m. after the six boys went through the fraternity annex throwing firecrackers into the rooms of sleeping fraternity brothers, police said.

The blaze was noticed by one of the residents of the annex when he awoke and saw flames coming through his bedroom wall, according to police.

The six youths who pleaded guilty to the charge of disturbing the peace, told police they had intended the firecrackers as a joke, a means of keeping boys in the annex awake during the night.

Manitoba Calls General Election

Winnipeg (AP) — A Manitoba general election has been set for June 23 in most of the province and July 7 in the late-warming Churchill constituency on Hudson Bay.

The election was called by Premier Duff Roblin, who gave the province its third successive Conservative government in the Dec. 14, 1962, elections.

Other Canadian provincial elections this spring are in Prince Edward Island May 30 and Quebec June 5.

The Way Grows Much Brighter

When God Gives Us Our Marching Orders

What a Morning

Surely this is the day of the Lord. His sun is shining. His birds are singing... all's right with the world. But how is it with you? Are you enjoying God's surpluses? Can you speak as David spoke in Psalms 23:5? ... my cup runneth over. Do you attend Sunday school and the regular worship hour in the church of your choice? Could it be that you are in the midst of plenty and letting your soul starve to death? If so you have recourse in God. The way of the Lord is straight and poverty does not exist with Him. Why not wake up with this mother and son, look out the window and accept the challenge He offers you. Go to Sunday school and worship services this very day.

You in The Church
The Church in You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her programs of service to humanity. Be a faithful worker and attend services regularly.

Be Strong in the FAITH and Regular in ATTENDANCE at your FAVORITE CHURCH

of the suburban areas

The sky, the sidewalk, and your darling little boy might all be wet and muddy this morning, but the activity in the suburban neighborhoods is as bright as any sunny spring morning with birthdays, newcomers and a reunion.

EASTBOROUGH

Two birthday celebrations highlighted the activity at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Logston this week. The happy celebrants were Larry and Susan who both marked their birthdates with dinner guests. Larry, a young man turning six on Monday invited Pam Schroeder for lunch that afternoon. Susan entertained her friend, Erin Dougen, at dinner Tuesday evening which was her seventh anniversary.

New residents in the Eastborough area this morning are Mr. and Mrs. John M. Kreifels formerly of Nebraska City. Mr. and Mrs. Kreifels and their daughters, Rhonda, 9, and Denise, 8, arrived at their new home, 7541 Steinway, complete with all the things that make home a home, including a Chihuahua named Boots and a pretty parakeet, Skipper.

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

Three former classmates gathered at the home of Mrs. Ivan Orthengren this week to welcome a fourth. Mrs. Ken Mulvaney of Westminster, Colo. who, with her daughters, Jo Ann and Cathy, is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lindquist. At the afternoon coffee guests included Mrs. Orthengren's youngsters, Vicki and Alan, Mrs. Walter Switzer and daughter Germaine, and Mrs. Stanley Dougherty and her son Patrick.

SUNNYSIDE ACRES

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pasco were in attendance at the May Fete at Auburn High School on Monday evening, May 9. The Lincoln twosome had a special interest in the May Queen and her court since Mrs. Pasco's sister, Miss Marla Sears, was one of the Queen's attendants, a Princess. While in Mrs. Pasco's home town she and Mr. Pasco were the guests of Mrs. Pasco's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sears.

In case the Pasco name seems unfamiliar to many Sunnyside Acres residents, Mr. and Mrs. Pasco have recently acquired their 2035 N. 60th address. They are former residents of 2119 N. 58th.

MEADOW LANE

A more conventional mode of transportation, a car, carried the Leon Lawrence family to Craig, Mo. for a Sunday of visiting last weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence and their three daughters, Cheryl, Lori and Linda, were the guests of Mr. Lawrence's father, Gerald Lawrence, for the afternoon.

FIENE HEIGHTS

And this morning Mr. and Mrs. Harry Livingston wish to mention their recent house guests. The visitors from St. Louis, Mo., were Mrs. Livingston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Slicker. Mr. and Mrs. Slicker spent a week in Lincoln but left the city on Friday for Salt Lake City, Utah, for a visit with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Brandt Slicker.

Vacation plans are in the making for Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cameron who plan to leave this Friday for Miami Beach, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Cameron expect to be absent from the neighborhood for about two weeks. The couple is also planning to include in their vacation plans a visit with Mr. Cameron's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cameron who are residents of Atlanta, Ga.

TALK

There's news of a guest this morning—Mrs. John Folsom — of Muskegon, Mich. Mrs. Folsom arrived last weekend to spend several days as the guest of her father, Dr. Ralph Ludwick, and to visit her brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Ludwick, Jr. Mrs. Folsom leaves on Tuesday to return to her home.

We've just learned that a dinner club which hasn't had a meeting for a number of years, is having a reunion later this month—The group isn't intact as to its original membership since three of the member couples have moved away. But those who are left in Lincoln will be together again for dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherwood on Saturday evening, May 28.

This is a busy weekend for Miss Leslie Childs whose marriage to Gordon Craig will be solemnized on Saturday afternoon, May 28.

Last evening Miss Childs and her fiancé shared honors at a dinner for which Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Woodruff were host and hostess when they entertained at the Lincoln Country Club.

And complimenting the bride-elect today will be Mrs. C. W. Faulkner and Mrs. Harold Osborn who have invited guests for a 12:30 o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. Faulkner. Following the luncheon Miss Childs will be presented with a personal shower.

at candlelight service

The marriage of Miss JoAnn Klintworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Klintworth of Pleasant Dale, to Thomas L. Sieck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Sieck, also of Pleasant Dale, was solemnized Friday evening, May 20, in a candlelighted chancel of Immanuel Lutheran Church near Seward. The Rev. Paul H. Heitmann read the lines of the 7 o'clock service.

Wearing long-skirted frocks in pastel spring shades and carrying nosegays of white roses and carnations were Mrs. William S. Jones, the matron of honor; Miss Leola Vagts, Seward, the maid of honor; and the bridesmaids, Miss Nancy Schulz, Seward; Miss Annette Sieck, Pleasant Dale; and Mrs. Frank Vert.

Jerry Sieck of Pleasant Dale served as best man, and the ushers were Arthur Vagts and Roger Sieck, Pleasant Dale; Ed Pillard, Malcolm; and Frank Vert.

The bride appeared in a gown of white silk organza over taffeta. Appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace edged the curved neckline of the long-sleeved basque, and were repeated in the trim of skirt, which was pleated into controlled fullness and continued into a chapel train. Her illusion veil was held by a crown of lace and pearls, and she carried an arrangement of stephanotis and pink roses centered with white orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Sieck will live in Aberdeen, Md., where the bridegroom is serving with the Army.

FORMER
coed is bride-elect

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Lollen Schoenholz of Bruning, of the engagement of their daughter, Charlene, of Lincoln, to Frank Harding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Harding.

A summer wedding is planned. Miss Schoenholz is a former student at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Church Wedding

At an evening wedding on Friday, May 20, Miss Linda Mae Rasp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Rasp, became the bride of Richard L. Young, son of Mrs. Matt Young, and the late Mr. Young. The 8 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Albert Gray at Hawthorn Methodist Church, and Mrs. Chet Slaughter, organist, played the wedding music. Kenneth Freese was the vocal soloist.

The maid of honor and bride's only attendant was Miss Honey Lou Powers, who wore a floor-length frock of green chiffon designed with an overbodice of white lace. She carried a cascade of white and green daisies.

Eric Rasmussen served Mr. Young as best man, and seating the guests were Ross Kieborz of Litchfield, and Ronald Kuenning, Omaha.

Fashion Show

A fashion show and party for all 6th grade Junior Girl Scouts and their friends has been planned by the Jay-Husker Council of Girl Scouts to be held Saturday at 2 o'clock, in the party room of the First Federal Bldg.

Serving as models will be Chris Hennington, Diane Cunningham and Nancy Quinlan of Troop 115, and the program will be given by Roseanne Hoschele, Debra Johnson and Dorothy Clinefelter of Troop 176.

Serving as hostesses will be Shirley Slocum, Barbara Wolcott and Terri Parra, Troop 164, and Betty Latzel, Linda McCoy and Linda Steffann, Troop 131.

Open House

In observance of Senior Citizens Day, Sunday, May 22, the residents of the Homestead Nursing Home, 4735 So. 54th, will be honored at an open house Sunday afternoon.

A program of music will be given by the 90-piece Lincoln High School band at 3 o'clock on the patio.

Annual Tea

The annual World Fellowship tea of the Lincoln YWCA, to be held Sunday afternoon, will feature a "taste" of 12 different nations.

The public is invited to attend the 3 o'clock to 5 o'clock event for which Mrs. Vance Rogers is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Frank C. Mandell, Mrs. Ronald Ozaki and Mrs. F. L. Lehr.

Doll Fair

More than 76 Blue Birds of District II gathered in Pioneer's Park Wednesday afternoon for a special sort of fair—an exhibit of their favorite doll or stuffed animal.

A list of ceremonies was Mrs. Warren Urbom, and serving as judges were Mrs. Carol Ossowski, Mrs. Joseph Damm, Mrs. Howard Churchill and Mrs. LeRoy Thomas.

ABBY

"mad", that you are
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am MAD at you. Yes, MAD, MAD, MAD! I just got thru telling my daughter that she is not to associate with children of divorced parents, and then you come along and say people who think that way are ignorant! Well, I am not ignorant. I am a college-educated Christian woman, married 25 years. If people want to get divorced and drag themselves in the mud, let them associate with their own kind. There is no parental supervision in broken homes. The mother is either out working or is too dead tired to care where her children are.

And daddy is either honeymooning with his new wife, or out drunk with his girl friend. And meanwhile, the kids are running wild. No, I don't want my children associating with children whose parents are divorced. And if this warps them to tears, I am glad. Maybe it will make them think twice about what divorce can do.

FOR MORALITY
DEAR FOR: So you would punish kids for the mistakes and misfortunes of their parents. You are indeed "mad."

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a college-educated couple who, instead of hiring a sitter for their three-year-old son, take him wherever they are invited? I don't mean to a casual bridge evening, but to a late dinner party to which six other couples had been invited. We don't have extra bedrooms as yet, and Mr. and Mrs. X show up at the door with their Bobby all ready for bed. (Our bed!) They didn't ask us if we minded, nor did they make any excuses for bringing him.

Naturally, the child fusses a little, being in a strange bed and all, and his parents take turns running in and humoring him, which disrupts the entire party. These people can afford a sitter just like the rest of us, but they have taken the child with them ever since he was a month old. Any comments?

PARTY SPOILED
DEAR SPOILED: If this couple spoiled ONE of your parties, shame on them. If they spoiled TWO, shame on YOU. Your complaints are valid, but if you want action, you'd better address them to the offending couple.

Parties, Wedding Plans

A bride-elect of late May who has been honored at recent courtesies is Miss Mary Kathleen Schmidt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schmidt, who will become the bride of Roger Nannen on Saturday, May 28.

In courtesy to Miss Schmidt, Mrs. P. J. Meehan and her daughter, Miss Mary Meehan, will be hostesses at a coffee this morning at their home. The guests will present a bridal shower to the honoree.

Tuesday afternoon, Miss Schmidt will be presented a personal shower following a luncheon for which Mrs. Joseph Young will be hostess at her home.

The soon-to-be bride was honored recently at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Adam Brumm and Mrs. Ivan May at the home of Mrs. May in Hickman. Twenty guests were invited to the informal party which was held Sunday afternoon, May 1.

The wedding of Miss Schmidt and Mr. Nannen will take place at a 7:30 o'clock evening service, at the Cathedral of the Risen Christ.

Recent prenuptial courtesies honoring May bride-elect, Miss Karen Tyrrell, whose marriage to Gary Muehlhausen will be an event of Saturday, May 28, include the surprise party for which Miss Nora Adams was hostess at her home. The honoree was presented a kitchen shower.

Also honoring Miss Tyrrell recently were Mrs. Albert Seiler and Mrs. Andrew Seiler who entertained at a miscellaneous shower held in the party room of the First Federal Bldg.

For her wedding, which will take place at Bethany Christian Church, Miss Tyrrell has named Miss Georgia Van Horn as her maid of honor. Her bridesmaids will be Miss Vicki Bailey and Miss Lorie Meyer, Lincoln; Miss Beth Childress, Sterling, Colo.; and her fiancé's sister, Miss Bonnie Muehlhausen of Millard. Miss Julie Olson will be the flower girl, and ringbearer will be Rod Hornby.

Lighting the candles for the 8 o'clock service will be Mr. Muehlhausen's brother, Glen Muehlhausen, and Miss Nancy Seiler.

James Donaldson will serve as best man, and the ushers will include the bride-elect's brother, Kent Tyrrell, Jay Sterns, Ron Fox and David Lebsack.

Announcing the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Cheryl Jean Gassman, whose marriage to Kenneth Luchsinger of Columbus, will be an event of Saturday, May 28.

The soon-to-be bride has chosen her sister, Miss Janet Gassman, as her maid of honor, and mation of honor will be her fiancé's sister-in-law, Mrs. Gene Luchsinger. Miss Judy Thomason will be the bridesmaid.

The flower girl will be Miss Mary Sue Hagood, and ringbearer will be the bride-elect's brother, William Gassman.

Serving his brother as best man will be Robert Luchsinger of Columbus, and the groomsmen will be Herbert Luchsinger, Columbus, and Gene Luchsinger, also brothers of the bridegroom-elect, Kenneth Hinkle and Dennis Rieker.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

This hand was played in a team match.

Table 1. West led the king of hearts and continued with the queen after East had played the nine. Declarer ruffed, cashed the A-K of clubs, and trumped dummy's last heart.

Then, after cashing three diamonds, he led a spade from dummy. East played low and South finessed the nine West took the ten and was endplayed. He had to either lead a spade or yield a ruff and discard. As a result, South made five clubs.

Table 2. West led the king of hearts. East decided that West's overall was based on a five-card suit, thus marking declarer with a singleton heart. Realizing that his partner might eventually be endplayed in spades, East overtook the king of hearts and returned a spade.

Declarer finessed the nine and lost it to the ten. West then played the queen of hearts which South ruffed. It was now apparent to South, considering East's first two plays, that West had the king of spades.

Accordingly, South gave up on the spade finesse which was marked to lose. Instead he turned to a different line of play that offered a far better chance of success.

He first ran all his trumps, discarding a spade from dummy. He next cashed the Q-K of diamonds, producing this position:

When declarer now led the ace of diamonds, West was in trouble. He couldn't afford to discard the jack of hearts, so he discarded the five of spades. Declarer thereupon led a spade to the ace, and caught the king. As a result, he made five clubs.

302 South 9thGame Commission Sets
Deer Season Opening

The Nebraska Game Commission Friday set Nov. 5 as the opening day of the nine-day 1966 deer hunting season and increased the number of permits available by 750 to 24,900.

It also approved a nine-day fall turkey season (Oct.

29 through Nov. 6) and a three-day antelope campaign (Sept. 17 through Sept. 19).

The deer season, which runs through Nov. 13, was okayed after considerable wrangling. The vote was 3-2. At one point, the Commissioners considered including Ponca State Park in the open hunting area. But Commission Director Mel O. Steen said this would not be a good move because the deer there are a top-notch tourist attraction.

There was also a proposal to close the Brown and Cherry County units to antelope hunting this year because of a drop in the antelope population in north-central Nebraska.

However, the Commission agreed to open the season but cut the number of permits available in the units considerably.

Deer hunting units and number of permits available in each:

Blue, 1,000; Buffalo, 1,250; Calamus, 1,200; Elkhorn, 1,250; Frenchman, 1,200;

Keya Paha, 2,500; Loup, 1,500; Missouri, 200; Nemaha, 400; Omaha, 300; Pine Ridge, 2,500; Platte, 1,200; Platte, 1,200; Republican, 300; Sand Hills, 2,500; Upper Platte, 1,000; and Wahoo, 1,000.

The Commission said it will announce the special deer seasons for De Soto Bend and Gifford refuges later. There will be no special season this year on the Valentine refuge.

The straight nine-day fall turkey campaign is a switch from last year when two five-day seasons were approved on an experimental basis.

A total of 2,325 turkey permits will be issued in six units.

The units and permits:

Lincoln, 125; Nebraska, 300; Red Willow, 100; Round Top, 1,500; Verdine, 50; and Wildcat, 50.

The antelope season is unchanged from last year.

Units and permits include:

Banner, 300; Box Butte, 300; Brown, 50; Cherry, 50; Cheyenne, 50; Dismal, 75; Garden, 300; North Sioux, 400.

In other action, the Commission authorized the acquisition of 160 acres near the Limestone Bluffs Special Use Area in southern Franklin County for $2,400, with federal funds paying 75% of the costs.

The land will be used for quail hunting, Steen said.

The Commission was presented with two awards by the Cornhusker Motor Club of Omaha for Commission folders promoting Nebraska tourism.

Clay Sees
Quick KO

London (AP)—Having completed his share of the ballyhoo by building up Henry Cooper as a "tough opponent," Cassius Clay turned around Friday and predicted he would knock out the cut-prone, lantern-jawed Briton in 60 seconds Saturday night.

The undefeated, 24-year-old heavyweight champion was a prohibitive 5½-1 favorite to whip the 32-year-old Londoner again in their title 15-round fight in the fourth round of their fight here nearly two years ago.

From the time of his arrival and until two days before the return bout, Clay kept stressing that Cooper was a tough foe with a powerful left hook—a punch that had dropped Clay in the fourth round of their fight here nearly two years ago.

The result is an expected 40,000 sellout of the grocer field at prices ranging from $58.80 for the ringside seats to $5.88 for standing room.

In addition, another 40,000 fans are expected to watch the closed circuit television in 17 British movie theaters.

Millions more will see the fight televised in the United States, Canada, Mexico and other countries via the Early Bird Satellite.

The fight will start about 3:15 p.m., CST, in the United States.

"Cooper will finish on his back," said Clay. He then described just how he would do the job, ending with:

"I'm sorry it only lasted a minute. Cooper could not live with me and it is all over. I am still the champ."

When Cooper heard this he shook his head and said:

"Funny fellow. In the morning he says I'm a worthy challenger. Then this."

"I'll start fast," said Cooper. "I'll win just as soon as I catch him."

Kauai King Favored In Preakness

Baltimore (AP)—Kauai King, the pride of Maryland and son of the Free State's greatest thoroughbred, puts his glittering 3-year-old record on the line Saturday as the outstanding favorite to take the 91st Preakness and move one race closer to a sweep of the Triple Crown classics.

The front-running winner of the Kentucky Derby, with a record of seven victories and one second in nine 1966 starts, takes on eight rivals at 13/16 miles. Victory will leave the Maryland-bred son of Native Dancer within one triumph—the Belmont Stakes June 4—of the coveted Triple Crown last won by Citation in 1919.

With clear, summer-like weather and a fast track, Pimlico officials are looking for a crowd in excess of 40,000. Post time will be 3:46 p.m., CST, with CBS telecasting the colorful show from 3:30 to 5 p.m., CST.

If the $1,000 starting fee is posted for all nine entries, the run for the Black Eyed Susans will be worth $181,500. The winner will earn $129,000 with second worth $30,000, third $15,000 and fourth, $7,500.

Kauai King, named for one of the Hawaiian Islands, owned by 41-year-old Michael Ford of Omaha, Neb., trained by canny Henry Forrest and ridden by Don Brumfield, figures to go off as the even money choice to become the first Maryland-bred colt to capture the Preakness since his sire in 1953.

Vivacious Salvation Army Historian Turned Booklet Assignment Into Book

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Mrs. Sallie Chesham, a vivacious third-generation Salvation Army officer who authored what she describes as a "book of anecdotes" about the Army in America, was in the Capital City Friday for the Lincoln Citadel's annual meeting.

The Salvation Army historian, an instructor at the organization's Central Territory School for Officers' Training in Chicago, spoke about a "Century of Progress" of the International service group at the annual meeting held this year by the Lincoln Kiwanis Club.

Brigadier Chesham, a short story and feature writer until she was commissioned to write a booklet-length history for the Army's 100th anniversary, published her first book in October 1965 with it and McNally.

MRS. SALLIE CHESHAM

The 20,000-word pamphlet about the Army and its friends in America grew into a 120,000-word manuscript. It was eventually shortened and printed primarily through the efforts of a publishing agency executive to whom the "Army" had been so good while he served in the war.

"It seems to be anecdotal enough to be interesting," the modest author said, noting that the book now is in its third printing.

"Born to Battle" was slanted toward the public, she said. Through anecdotes about the Army she said she hopes the organization's purpose of glorifying God would be revealed and emphasized.

With her background in Salvation Army history and some 2,000 letters containing personal observations, contacts, associations and impressions relating to the service and preaching of the Army, the enthusiastic author compiled the only book of its kind written by a Salvationist.

Salvation Army Activity Up In 1965

Lincoln's Salvation Army Citadel sponsored 2,547 educational, recreational and religious activities attended by 142,755 persons in 1965, according to the annual report released Friday.

The sessions—designed to strengthen family life, create a feeling of neighborliness, develop leadership and cultivate an awareness and acceptance of citizenship responsibility—numbered almost 400 more than 1964, although total attendance in 1965 dropped by some 10,000.

"Schedules are built around the interests, activities and needs of young and old, from 3 to 86 years," Commanding Officer Major Charles R. Duskkin explained.

1934 At Youth Events Youth activities in 1965 totaled 701 with 15,934 attendees.

Although the Army conducted four fewer meetings of correctional service than the previous year, total attendance at the 48 meetings jumped to 1,932, 1,000 more than in 1964.

A report of Christmas activities included 196 gift certificates provided to families, 1,612 dinners provided, 65 garments, and 2,196 treats and gifts.

Six of the eight persons listed with the Army as missing during the year were found.

Attendance Up

There have been a number of statements pro and con about our past dispute with our Employers, called B.C.E.A. (Building Construction Employers Association)

We have no ill feeling toward these Employers. We express our gratitude for every bit of cooperation we have had. We would like to take this opportunity to clear a few of these statements that the public have misinterpreted.

(1) Subsidiaries, assigns and successors. (This can be cleared by simply opening your dictionary).

(2) Addition to the "Steward's Clause". (Ask questions to be certain).

(3) "High Pay" — (Which does not mean extreme in money).

(4) Our wages beginning May 17, 1966 as follows:

May 17, '66 to April 1, 1967$4.12 1/2

April 1, '67 to April 1, 19684.32 1/2

April 1, '68 to April 1, 19694.52 1/2

(These figures include 5 cents for Health & Welfare May 17, '66; 5 cents for Pension Plan, April 1, '67 and also 5 cents for Pension Plan April 1, 1968).

Now, we do not get paid holidays; We do not get sick time; We do not get one, two or three weeks paid vacation; We do not get paid for days or even weeks at a time which we cannot work because of weather conditions which are an act of our good Lord. We expect these things and are not complaining; however, many working people, including office personnel, industrial workers, clerk, city, county and state employees do enjoy and get these benefits.

Now, we are not against any of the above mentioned getting these benefits but we do not like to be criticized for the things we do try to get a "fair share" in our working conditions and wages that will at least compensate for the things mentioned.

We again wish to take this opportunity to "thank" our Employers — especially for their cooperation shown the past few weeks and other people who showed concern. Sorry, we cannot say this for all.

We would like also at this time to "thank" every member of our Local No. 1055 for their cooperation.

NEILL E. BOURNE, President
Carpenters Local No. 1055,

Demonstration Centers
He said the two model instructional libraries will also serve as demonstration centers for Nebraska and surrounding states.

The Grand Island elementary school, with 551 students, and the Omaha school, with 630, were selected because of their locations and the degree of local progress made by the schools in developing their libraries.

Miller said the grants "will underline the need for elementary school libraries and provide a demonstration program for other school districts to emulate."

It was noted that less than two-tenths of one per cent of Nebraska's elementary schools have instructional libraries.

Of Tiemann's tax stand, Krivosha said: "He supported the income tax before he filed. He opposed the income tax after he filed. He thinks he favors appointing another committee to make another study if he is elected governor. He has difficulty with the term 'broadened tax base' but he doesn't like the property tax either. The tax issue is really just a political football."
